They will read and explore a prefix 'un'. They will then be using a story map to change a story and retell it.	In this lesson the children will be using all of their senses to create a vivid description. They will be using adjectives to describe the changed animals in the story and will use the story map that they created yesterday to help them.	In this lesson the children will start by recapping the prefix 'un'. They will then explore one of the animals from the story in more detail using their senses (what the animal looks like, sound like, feel like) They will complete a sensory grid about the animal and then use the sensory grid to write a poem about the animal.	In this lesson the children will explore what 'repetition' is. They will focus on vivid description and using all of their senses. They will learn about using the suffix -est. Then they will describe one of the animals from their recycled story using repetition and their senses.	text together and then predict what they think will happen next in the story, using the word 'because' to explain why they think this.
